To Whom It May Concern:

I first met Andreanna Rainville in 1999 while attending a series of seminars taught by Dietrich Klinghardt in Seattle Washington. I was immediately impressed by her ability to understand and teach many aspects of Biological Medicine from her diverse clinical experience. Our professional and personal relationship grew through our training in Metabolic Typing and I have always looked to her for insight into difficult cases, cutting edge information and professional support.

I have taught, practiced and trained medical professionals for several organizations and schools throughout my 30 year career as an acupuncturist, homeopath and herbalist in the US and abroad and invited Andreanna to my clinical practice in Tucson AZ and again while I was working in London, England. I value her ability to take complex subject matter and communicate it to other professionals according to their level of experience and background. She brings a very high level of professional and personal ethic to her work that I find inspiring. It is obvious to me that she has a very high level of commitment to her work and I am grateful for such a resource in the Biological Medicine community.

Sincerely,

Vanessa R. Morgan
